The Uintah Arts Council receives a portion of its annual funding through local government entities. If an independent arts organization would like to request some funding through the Uintah Arts Council, such request must be submitted in writing to the Uintah Arts Council's President by October 1 for funding in the following calendar year. If approved by the Uintah Arts Council's Board of Directors, the Arts Council will then include the independent organization's request, or a portion of the request as deemed feasible by the Board of Directors, with its own request for government funding. The Arts Council has not received all it has requested in many instances in the past and assumes no obligation or guarantee of funds to an independent requester. The Uintah Arts Council is a not-for-profit corporation and all of its Directors and Officers volunteer their time with no pay for their donated efforts. Fund-raising efforts through arts activities such as concerts and plays have not done particularly well for the Arts Council in the past and organizations are advised that, while the cause is usually commendable, the costs of producing an event are usually greater than the income.
